Carol S. Fuller

Chargé d'Affaires of the U.S. Mission to the OSCE

A senior career diplomat in the United States Foreign Service, Carol S. Fuller is Deputy Chief of Mission of the U.S. Mission to the Organization for Security and Cooperation in Europe (OSCE) in Vienna, Austria. From 2006-2009, she was detailed to the Organization of American States in Washington, D.C. where she managed the Secretariat of the Inter-American Committee against Terrorism (CICTE for its initials in Spanish), leading efforts to implement the counter terrorism mandates of the 34 member states.

Before joining the OAS, Ms. Fuller was Director of Policy Planning for the Western Hemisphere in the U.S. Department of State. She has broad experience in counter narcotics policy and programs, having worked as Director of the U.S. Embassy Narcotics Affairs Sections in Bolivia from 2003 to 2005 and in Peru as Deputy Director and Management Director from 1995-1999. From 2001-03, she served as Counselor for Political Affairs in the U.S. Mission to the OAS in Washington, D.C. Previously, she was Executive Director for Management Affairs in the Bureau of Oceans and International Environmental and Scientific Affairs as well as the Bureau of Democracy, Human Rights and Labor in the Department of State. In earlier assignments she represented the U.S. Government at the United Nations on matters concerning UNICEF and was Desk Officer for the African countries of Rwanda and Burundi in the Bureau of African Affairs. She has also served at U.S. Embassies in Cameroon, Belize, and Nepal.

Ms. Fuller earned a Bachelor of Arts degree from Wittenberg University, United States, and holds a doctorate in French from the Catholic University of America. Before joining the United States Foreign Service, Ms. Fuller taught at the Catholic University of America, the University of Louisville, and at Westminster College, in the United States. She speaks French, and Spanish. Her husband is also an officer in the U.S. Foreign Service, and they have two adult children.
